

The 2nd International Conference on Language, Literature and Teaching

ICoLLiT

“Future Perspective
for Language Education, Linguistic and Literary Studies in 4.0 Era”

May 1st & 2nd 2019

at Auditorium of Moh. Djazman

Background

The Term education 4.0 is a very popular topic today because of its big influence on education system. Its emergence is inspired by Industry Revolution 4.0. It is new paradigm which focuses on the innovation and informationa technology. This new paradigm has been promoted in many fields of studies, including EFL teaching, linguistic and literary studies. It is unavoidable that the use of information technology supports the jobs of educators as well as researchers. This conference is aimed to explore current trends, concepts and strategies for the adaptation to new industrial revolution, especially in the field of EFL teaching, linguistic and literary studies. This conference is an important contribution to the understanding of education 4.0 to look at what is happening within the word of EFL teaching, linguistic, and literary studies. It is rather board in its scope and yet grounded in its focus on actual examples from educational, either in higher educations as well as primary or secondary education. This conference, therefore, is worth attending.
